

MODERNIZING U.S. FOOD AID

Since 1954, U.S. food aid has fed more than three billion people in over 150 countries. But the current U.S. food aid system can be slow and inefficient.

If we modernized food aid, we could feed up to 10 Million More People and save countless lives – all without spending an extra penny.

In order to make biggest impact possible, we must provide the right kind of food aid to those in need, including

U.S. grown food

Locally grown food

Financial assistance

Vouchers

Faster delivery of emergency food aid
